U. S. WORKERS SEEK MORE PAY

Local Organization Aiding National Campaign for Federation Members

The local organization of federal employees, consisting of about two hundred members residing in the Intermountain district of the forest service, is aiding the National organization in a campaign for increased membership.

The National Federation of Federal Employees, with headquarters at Washington, is launching a nationwide drive for new members, who will assist in supporting the campaign for legislation beneficial to government employees, as well as increased efficiency for the good of the government, and hope to reach a membership of one hundred thousand within the next few weeks. The National organization, as now existing, consists of 184 locals in the United States and its possessions, and has a membership of approximately sixty thousand. Its aim is to assist in putting on a strictly business basis the work of the government by doing away with duplication of work in the various bureaus; placing the salaries on a basis according to the class and quantity of work done and the educational requirements necessary; and paying the same wages in the different bureaus for the same kind of services rendered; such not being the case in many instances now.

The recent defeat of the Johnson-Nolan minimum wage bill, which would have given at least $2.00 a day to those in the civil branches of the government, who are now receiving less, has given impetus to the national membership campaign. It has been shown clearly that the public, and congress, in particular, has not clearly understood the financial conditions that face many of the lower salaried people in the employ of the government; otherwise the filibuster by a few reactionary senators, during the closing hours of the last session of congress, whereby some sixty thousand persons were deprived of a living wage would not have taken place.

QUERY ON PARK'S NAME SHOWS UP CITY OFFICIALS

War was begun in the city hall this morning which promises to continue for several days at least. The trouble began when a reporter broke into Commissioner Flygare's office this morning where most of the city officials were discussing various affairs.

"What is the correct name of the park surrounding the city hall?" fired the reporter. Then the barrage started.

"Central Park," said Mayor Francis.

"City Hall Park," shouted Commissioner Flygare.

"Union Square," yelled City Engineer Tracy.

"Municipal Park," chirped in "Doc" Elliott, who was passing the door.

The firing ceased for a moment as Commissioner Flygare swung around in his chair and dug down in his desk for an old book of city ordinances.

"In 1881, it was known as Union Square," said Mr. Flygare after reading, "and as it has never been changed by ordinance, it still remains."

Then came the suggestions for renaming and the sentiment seemed to favor "City Park." As a result of the confusion, a newspaperman it is probable that within the near future an ordinance will be drafted renaming the grounds officially "City Park."

PLENTY WOOL BUT NO CASH COMPANY
WONDERING WHY?

With woolen clothing for men and women quoted at prices almost out of sight, the picture of a big wool growing company so poor it cannot subscribe for a newspaper for a year in advance as a result of the wool market has been doing, but must limit its payment to a subscription fee for six months is presented in a letter received by the Standard-Examiner.

The letter is from George A. Myers, president of the Piedmont Land & Livestock company of Piedmont, Wyoming. The company is one of the big growers of wool, sheep and lambs.

The plight of the industry is set forth in the following letter from Mr. Myers:

"Herewith check to extend my subscription for six months. We like your paper but have no funds. Our wool is at home in the barn. The industry is on the point of extermination. We are getting squeezed from all directions.

"We are without an offer on wool that has cost us a dollar a pound to produce.

"What is the why and the wherefore of this condition?

"We have never profited. We have never had the opportunity. The other fellow fixes the price. We have labored and lost our hire. We are unworthy?"

"Cannot you take up the cudgels in our behalf?"

MUTUALS HOLD INITIAL RALLY

Three Thousand People Assemble at Lorin Farr Park in Celebration

Fully three thousand people assembled at Lorin Farr park last night on the occasion of the first tri-state rally of the Mutuals of the Ogden North Weber and Weber stakes.

Commencing at 7:30 o'clock the program was well presented and received the applause of the vast assembly. Under the direction of Prof. E. W. Nichols the Ogden Ladies band gave a concert for one hour and community singing was led by M. Charles Woods. Singing by a chorus of girls under the direction of Wm. H. Manning was an added pleasure of the evening.

There was a large attendance of stake officers and bishops from the wards of the three stakes. Panning was the concluding feature of the rally and was enjoyed by a large number of young people. The officers of the Mutuals state they have set certain standards for the dances that will be held each Wednesday evening at the park and those who wish to participate in the dances will be required to conform to the regulations.

Would Make Spouse Live Up to Decree

In an answer to a petition recently filed in the district court by her husband, James Bowman, asking that a modification of a decree of divorce be granted, Mrs. Susanna Bowman today asks that her husband be compelled to live up to the terms of the decree and prays that her husband be dismissed in contempt of court for not following the provisions of the decree.

Mrs. Bowman charges that her husband has failed and refuses to pay her alimony of $30 a month as set forth in the decree and alleges that but two payments have been made, one for $30 in August, 1919, and one of $20 in September.

She further charges that she was compelled to pay funeral expenses and doctor bills following the death of her two minor children and the amount of $305 is due from the defendant for these charges.

Mrs. Bowman prays that her husband be dismissed and he be compelled to pay her the money due, together with interest and court costs.

CHICKEN LAW OPENS SEPT. 15

Wild Fowl Too Small for Shooting, Local Sportsmen Aver

Open season for the shooting of sage hens, grouse and other similar birds will not come this year until September 15, instead of August 15 as has been usual, according to information received by officials of the Weber Rod and Gun club from R. H. Siddoway, state fish and game commissioner. The regulation will apply to the entire state, and the reason given for the postponement are the smallness of the birds, due to a late and cold spring.

Efforts of members of the Weber County Rod and Gun association are largely responsible for the changing of the season dates, and upon the suggestion of A. T. Hestmark, president of the club, following a survey, the state fish and game department decided to defer the date of season.

The survey in Weber and other northern Utah counties, according to the club officials, has shown that it would bring on a wholesale slaughter of half-grown birds to open the season on the usual date this year. The safe chickens at present are no more than able to fly and with hunters and dogs after them as early as August 15, would mean their entire extermination it was declared.

Weather Man Promises Showers This Evening

Ogden sweltered in the rays of a sultry sun this morning and waited impatiently for nightfall and the predicted showers which the weather prognosticator declared must come with evening. In his report this morning the United States weather man promised relief after a week of intense heat, by sending a cooling shower which, he says, will probably be general over the Ogden vicinity. He modifies his prediction, however, with an all-in case the shower does not materialize, by adding the word, "possibly," before "showers tonight."

Yesterday's heat was intensely felt, due to the lack of cooling breezes, although the official thermometer reading has shown that the mercury only reached 89 degrees. For the information of those who are inclined to doubt this low figure as they mopped their perspiring brows yesterday afternoon it is explained that the official thermometer is cooped up in a small box near the city square and the sun's rays are carefully kept from actually striking the delicate instrument.

The government readings are always made in the shade.

BAD CHECK IS PAID BY WIFE

D. S. Hogge Held for Passing Worthless Paper, Let Down Easy

D. S. Hogge, of West Weber, appeared before Judge D. R. Roberts this morning charged with having issued a check without sufficient funds. He pleaded guilty of having passed a worthless check on C. E. Carlyle. It appeared during the trial that Hogge had been arrested four times during the past four years on a similar charge.

County Attorney Joseph B. Bates stated that a recommendation for six months in the county jail would go amiss in curbing the check writing proclivities of the defendant, but added that such a sentence would work a hardship on the wife and three children of the defendant. Mrs. Hogge had to make the bad check good yesterday.

Judge D. R. Roberts, upon recommendation of the county attorney, withheld sentence indefinitely, with the understanding that if Hogge again writes a worthless check that he can be brought before the court for sentence without the formality of a trial. Hogge was released on his own recognizance.

ACE PRACTICES FOR RECORD AIR FLIGHT

PARIS—Testing his endurance preparatory to an airplane attempt to exceed the altitude record of Major H. A. Schroeder, F. S. A. who flew to a height of six miles, Lieutenant Casale, French ace, had himself sealed in a steel tube the other day.

and the air exhausted slowly until the pressure inside equaled what it would have been at seven miles above the earth. This pressure was reached in 20 minutes and his "descent" required the same length of time. He suffered no ill effects.

BOYS HELD FOR STEALING AUTO

Four Bound Over to District Court for Trial From Juvenile Court

That automobile thievery in Ogden has reached such proportions that it must be curbed with the use of stern methods is made evident in the binding over to the district court of four boys, all under 18 years of age, and the setting of their bonds at $500 each. The youths, Donald O'Loughlin, Melvin Spendlove, Albert Johns and Elwin Ohlson, are now held in the county jail, after failing to furnish the bail bond. The boys were bound over to the higher court after hearing in the juvenile court before Judge Dan Sullivan.

The quartette of boys are alleged to have stolen an automobile belonging to Harry Bateman and started on their way to the coast. They are said to have experienced trouble at Cornville, and were arrested by Sheriff H. C. Peterson and Deputy Sheriff Dick Wootton.

The arrest of the boys ended a four-day chase with the officers tracing them from town to town as they proceeded toward California. Charles Connelly, also charged with stealing an automobile is also being held in the county jail awaiting trial for the theft of the Owens machine.
